Project Description

The Public Diplomacy team in OES/PPO seeks a graphic design virtual intern to assist with the creation of content for various digital media platforms. The need for quality graphics conveying OES policy objectives is rapidly increasing as OES attempts to revitalize its current social media platforms and embrace new digital enterprises. A graphic design virtual intern will engage in a unique creative process with some of the State Department's most visually dynamic material. Upon the receipt of policy language, the virtual intern will create required graphics for digital and print products that effectively communicate and make OES policy issues visually appealing. The virtual intern will work with a member of the OES PD team who will provide guidance and answer questions as often as necessary, however limited supervision will be provided and the intern will be encouraged to use their graphic design talents as creatively as they wish. A committed virtual intern will leave this internship with the experience of having worked on the complex challenge of visually communicating science diplomacy. The intern will also walk away with a breadth of unique additions to their professional design portfolio featuring high-level policy issues.
